

Red lentil dal

Serves 6 | Main | Prep 15 min | Cook 30 min

INGREDIENTS

450 g Dry red lentils / 1.5 L, plus extra as needed Water / 600 g Tomatoes, diced / 250 g Onion, finely chopped / 30 mL Neutral oil / 1½ tsp Ground turmeric / 2 tsp Cumin seeds / 15 g Fresh ginger, grated / 3 cloves (9 g) Garlic, minced / 1 tsp Salt / 1.2 kg Cooked rice

METHOD

- 1. Rinse lentils until the water runs mostly clear. Put them in a large saucepan with water and turmeric.
- 2. Bring to a boil, skim foam if needed, then reduce to a gentle simmer. Cook partly covered for 20–25 minutes, stirring so the bottom does not stick.
- 3. In another pan, heat oil over medium heat. Add cumin seeds for 30 seconds, then onion and cook for 5–7 minutes.
- 4. Add ginger and garlic for 1 minute, then tomatoes. Cook for 6–8 minutes until softened.
- 5. Stir the tomato mixture and salt into the lentils. Simmer 5 minutes, adding hot water if too thick.
- 6. The finished dal should be soft and spoonable. Divide among six bowls and serve with rice.

KITCHEN NOTE

Lentils absorb different amounts of water; adjust gradually. This is a mild family version.
