

Miso-Glazed Shiitake and Tofu Donburi

Serves 6 | Main | Prep 20 min | Cook 30 min

INGREDIENTS

600g Firm tofu, drained and cubed / 400g Fresh shiitake mushrooms, sliced / 90g White miso paste / 60mL Water mixed with rice vinegar (45mL water + 15mL rice vinegar) / 45mL Soy sauce / 30g Granulated sugar / 30mL Neutral oil / 600g Short-grain rice, uncooked / 750mL Water for rice / 40g Scallions, sliced

METHOD

1. Rinse rice until water runs clear and cook in a rice cooker or covered pot using the 750mL water.
2. Whisk miso, the measured water-vinegar mixture, soy sauce, and sugar in a small bowl until smooth to create the glaze.
3. Heat 15mL oil in a large non-stick skillet over medium-high heat. Brown the tofu cubes on all sides for about 6-8 minutes, then remove them from the pan.
4. Add the remaining 15mL oil to the same pan and sauté the shiitake mushrooms for 5 minutes until softened and fragrant.
5. Return the tofu to the pan with the mushrooms. Pour the miso glaze over the mixture and stir gently for 3-4 minutes until the sauce bubbles and coats the ingredients evenly.
6. Ensure the internal temperature of the tofu reaches 160°F / 71°C.
7. Divide the cooked rice into six deep bowls. Spoon the miso tofu and mushroom mixture generously over the rice.
8. Garnish with sliced scallions and serve immediately.
