Serves 6 | Main | Prep 20 min | Cook 30 min

INGREDIENTS

900g Boneless chicken thighs, cut into 3cm pieces / 600g Cabbage, chopped / 300g Carrots, thinly sliced / 450g Uncooked short-grain rice / 600mL Water for rice / 60mL Soy sauce / 25g Garlic, minced / 15g Ginger, grated / 25g Brown sugar / 30mL Neutral oil / 90mL Water for sauce / 30g Scallions, sliced / 10g Toasted sesame seeds

METHOD

1. Cook rice with the measured rice water according to the package instructions. Mix soy sauce, garlic, ginger, sugar and sauce water in a bowl.
2. Heat oil in a wide deep skillet over medium-high heat. Add chicken in two batches and brown for 4 minutes per batch, then return all chicken to the pan.
3. Add cabbage and carrots. Stir for 3 minutes to begin softening the vegetables, then pour the soy-garlic mixture over everything.
4. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 10-15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Check several chicken pieces with a food thermometer; each must reach 165°F / 74°C.
5. Remove the lid and simmer briefly if the sauce is too thin. Divide rice among six bowls and add equal portions of chicken and vegetables.
6. Garnish with scallions and sesame seeds. Refrigerate leftovers within 2 hours and reheat to 165°F / 74°C.
